

Peter deKeratry

Peter deKeratry is the Chief Development Officer of the Arlington Diocese of VA. He serves as the chief development strategist and advisor to Bishop Burbidge, directs all major fund-raising programs, and provides oversight to the diocesan Office of Development as it grows endowments and charitable funds in support of the ministries and programs in the diocese and diocesan Catholic Charities.

Peter has work with numerous non-profit Catholic organizations at all levels: schools, , parishes and other church ministries. He was campaign director of the Citadel Foundation until he founded Petrus Development in 2004, a fund-raising consulting firm when he left in 2020.

In addition to his work at Petrus, he also served as Director in the Archdiocese of Brisbane In Australia and Campaign Manager at the Archdiocese of Chicago.

Peter deKeratry earned his bachelor's in speech communication from Texas A&M, and a master's in philanthropy and development from St. Mary's U of Minnesota.

Peter also started the Serra Club of Oklahoma, and is a Knight of Malta.

Mr. deKeratry and his wife have four children